New Music CD: Dresden's Call of the Blood
20th Anniversary Edition

We are very proud to offer this 20th Anniversary Edition of the very best White racist popular music ever produced, Dresden's Call of the Blood. The album has been digitally remastered in lush high fidelity sound and is offered in a beautiful, professionally-produced new edition.

The new album includes a full lyric sheet with notes and handsome new full-color cover art, never seen before, by the artist Alfred Sundvall — who also created the art for the first edition of this monumental work, which was originally available only on cassette tape.

The extremely talented songwriter and leader of Dresden, Joe Pryce, unselfishly donated this masterwork to the reconstituted National Alliance under Will Williams, and we are honored by his gift. Your purchase of this music CD will help the National Alliance in its work.

The artist, Alfred Sundvall — who has sometimes produced work under the nom de guerre The Unknown Artist — also donated the painting which graces the cover of this CD. It shows a White woman on a high summit gazing out over a fog-filled infinity of mountains and valleys, not unlike the view from Pierce Point on our land which our founder William Pierce loved so much. It was inspired by Dr. Pierce's favorite painting, Caspar Friedrich's The Wanderer Above the Mists.

Call of the Blood is nothing like typical skinhead or "White power" music. It is powerful progressive rock, somewhat reminiscent of the British band Yes, but it is also melodic and lyrical, and written and performed with absolute professionalism. Its 17 tracks are written from a radical White nationalist and National Socialist viewpoint. You have never heard anything quite like it in your life.

Here is the new CD's track list:

- Horst Wessel Song
- George Lincoln Rockwell
- Avatar
- Ariadne in America
- To Robert Matthews in Valhalla
- Zog/Blood and Soil
- Desolation Row (to Robert Miles)
- Dark Queen

- Call of the Blood
- The Stormer (to Julius Streicher)
- Landsberg Am Lech
- For Wilmot Robertson (Instauration)
- Tryst (Danger in Central Park)
- The Party Song
- Threnody (to the Leader)
- White Amerika
- La Chasse (the Hunt)

This excellent music makes a great recruiting tool; music reaches a part of the soul that reason cannot touch.

You can get your CD album of Call of Blood for just $16, or get five copies of the CD for $50, by writing to our postal address or order online by visiting:

Report from The Land: The Joy of Work

July was less exciting than was June — no 1,000-year storm — but no less productive. Most of the damage to the entry road has been repaired. We've made a lot of progress on the farm house also. Electricity and water are now functioning, and the painting of some of the interior walls and ceilings has been completed.

The garden is growing like crazy; we have tomatoes and our first full cucumber already. We've almost finished building the fence around our garden. It's a joy to get out there and get our hands dirty with work.

One thing we like doing during the "dog days" of summer is enjoying a swim in the Greenbrier River. Many of the locals and visitors do the same. The slow-moving water is clear as a swimming pool and probably warmer. We see families enjoying Nature — and the lack of large crowds — every day. We and they also enjoy the lack of non-Whites or the city dwelling, domesticated Whites.

On the 23rd we had a fire at the top of the mountain, Pierce Point — the spot where our founder's ashes were scattered 14 years ago — and reflected on our time here, on what has been lost, and, more importantly, what has been gained. As we rebuild the Alliance we will have ups and downs — gain new supporters and lose a few; it has always been that way. But if we keep focused on our goal to serve the One Purpose we will continue on the Upward Path towards the stars.

Our goal here is to turn this place into a sustainable, self funding White stronghold. No smart phones, no Jewish TV blasting in the background — and no non-Whites. We're adding our first beehive as I write this report. Everything but the electric fencing to keep the bears out was donated by a local supporter. As we build towards our goal we are turning each of our four parcels of land into a small agricultural operation. This will help us with property taxes, but, more importantly, it will help us feed staff and families in the near future.

Next month: chickens! — David Pringle, Chief of Staff, WV

Important Legal Victory

The lawsuit filed against the National Alliance by six disgruntled former Alliance members calling themselves NARRG (National Alliance Reform and Restoration Group) ended in a Gloucester, Virginia, courtroom on 29 July, as we expected it would all along. The judge dismissed with prejudice this two-and-a-half-year-old, $2 million harassment action that the NARRG grouplet tried desperately to “win on the Internet” rather than in court. As reported in previous BULLETINS, NARRG had no standing to bring the action.

This is a major victory. There will still be some mopping up for us to do now to punish the NARRG co-plaintiffs for causing Chairman Williams to spend tens of thousands of precious dollars defending the National Alliance from these vexatious litigants — much of that being from Williams' personal savings.

NARRG's stated goal was straight out of the SPLC lawfare playbook: Abuse the judicial process by tying up the National Alliance with lawsuits — even trumped-up criminal charges by associates in West Virginia — in a transparent attempt to bankrupt the Chairman and the Alliance, thinking that our organization did not have the money and support it takes to defend against multiple simultaneous legal attacks in two states, with our Chairman residing in a third. At least that is what NARRG thought they would accomplish.

Desperate Moves by Desperate Losers

Yet another bogus lawsuit was filed against the National Alliance on 22 July. This utterly groundless harassment suit will be no more successful than was NARRG's. John McLaughlin, another former member expelled from the Alliance by Chairman Williams, filed this action at the behest of Garland Corse, the mentally unstable SPLC infiltrator mentioned in previous BULLETINs who is now being paid as McLaughlin's "Legal Liaison and Executive Administrative Assistant." As her employer and facilitator, he is now responsible for her frauds. In the suit, McLaughlin, makes the insane claim that he is the Chairman of the National Alliance, and, like NARRG, asks the court to dissolve the Alliance. Whole sections of his suit are lifted word-for-word from the failed NARRG suit and the phrasing also shows the strong influence of Corse's rambling, nearly illiterate, stream-of-consciousness blog. NARRG has announced they are involved in "supporting" this new suit — a positive development from our point of view. McLaughlin has no case whatsoever.

McLaughlin and partner-in-crime Bob DeMarais have boasted that they are each willing to pay up to $10,000 more on litigation to remove Chairman Williams from office, but telling lies and simply throwing more money at lawyers to outspend the National Alliance does not constitute a sound legal strategy.

For example: In February, DeMarais and Corse hired an attorney in Lewisburg, West Virginia, paying him $4,000 just to temporarily stay two court orders Chairman Williams had won against Corse's boyfriend Michael Oljaca, who was squatting illegally in our gate house. They then coerced the inept and easily-manipulated Oljaca, a disgraced former member, to file four civil cases against Chairman Williams in March, which turned out to be a big mistake on their part. Our Chairman answered those bogus claims and filed counterclaims and an injunction. Their attorney then failed to respond — an even bigger mistake. It is likely that their hired mouthpiece realized what kind of clients he had, and that the lawsuits he had filed for them against the National Alliance and its leadership were totally groundless.

Now DeMarais has retained yet another attorney and is threatening to sue again over some imagined slight to his tranquility: a speed bump we installed on our internal road on the National Alliance West Virginia property. These lawsuits and threats of lawsuits are as groundless as the NARRG lawsuit was.

Correspondence

Hi, guys! Sorry I am unable to join your Alliance, my wife is Vietnamese. I married her in Vietnam 45 years ago. I also had a Jewish aunt and I have a prison record. But I think we as a country better give more support to Israel and nothing to the rest of the Middle East. This way the Jews can kill all the terrorist [sic] and maybe the whole of Islam. Since Islam has been again [sic] the world for thousands of years. Anyway just mouthing off. None of my wishes will ever come true with a Muslim in the White House. $50 enclosed. God bless. — R.T., Florida

Chairman Williams responds: Thanks for the donation despite some disagreements, guy!

Dear National Alliance: I recently purchased Volumes 1, 2, and 3 of the Dr. William Pierce CD broadcast speeches which are spot on the button, and I play them to friends.

I was born in 1938 and I knew about the lies when I was eight. Though I am not so well at times lately I am a member of the BNP (British National Party) and still a soldier for our people. As you probably know we have just voted ourselves out of the so-called European Union — a great victory which we will endeavor to build upon.

Please, Sir, I would like to receive your monthly BULLETIN and news of our fight for White freedom in America. In return for this I will send you $50 per month, starting now (enclosed). Kind regards, — L.D., United Kingdom

Greetings Chairman Williams: Enclosed is $250 donation for the National Alliance Legal Defense Fund from the New England National Alliance "proto-unit." We are hopeful for court victories in July against NARRG and for you in your personal legal battle in West Virginia. — R.M., Massachusetts

Dear National Alliance: Sorry for the delay; I am 82 and have health problems. At my age it is better to just donate when I can because there are constant currency problems. I would like to receive some of your material. Let me know what you have; I would rather not buy it elsewhere as I would rather donate the money to you.

I want to tell you that I am very impressed with the work you do with young people; it is so important that they have the knowledge you offer. Kind regards, — A.H., Australia

Chairman Williams: Sign me up for a year's membership — check enclosed, along with a little donation for Kevin Alfred Strom. You all deserve so much more than can be given by me. It is your hard work and perseverance that helps keep us all motivated. It is great to see some progress on the mountain — David Pringle and Laura Lee are obviously "bustin' butt." I really love it up there in West Virginia, and I swear if I wasn't anchored here in Florida I would be there assisting. Anyway, glad to be back on board. You all take care! — V.H., Florida

Good morning National Alliance from France.

I received my membership packet today. Congratulations on the maintenance of property which I read about on the White Biocentrism forum. The Alliance has all of my support.

You asked about the terrorist attack in Nice, France, on Bastille Day and about Frexit [France's version of Britain's Brexit vote to leave the European Union].

The Tunisian Muslim truck terrorist killed 84, among whom were 10 children, and injured dozens, including five more children. Currently, the anger against our enemies is very strong; the French people now speak out strongly against all the Arab invaders. Such terror has not been seen since 1960s. Yesterday evening, an axe and knife attack once again was perpetrated on a train in Wuerzburg, Germany, by an Afghan shouting "Allahu Akbar." A flag of ISIS was found at the Muslim's home.

As for Brexit, the French people are not ready. Nor Germany either. But with the righteous opposition which is rising in these two countries towards the invasion, that could perhaps change soon. Sincere salutations, — E.K., France

Greetings this morning, Chairman Will!

The BULLETIN is here. Actually it arrived yesterday and I consumed every word. Food for a starving man! I am looking forward to the July BULLETIN and hopefully by then, the matter of the malcontents and their SPLC shadows will finally be put to rest. — W.H., South Carolina Chairman Williams, this particular fanatic [referring to the Negro killer of five Dallas, Texas, policemen on 7 July] picked the wrong place to murder law enforcement officers. Texas juries are quick to reach a conclusion in cases where policemen are killed, and the state doesn't give commutations. The rest of the country will be wailing and gnashing their teeth over the "understandably upset" Black Lives Matter terrorist acting out of "frustration," killing cops. That'll fall on deaf ears in the Lone Star State. There is a movement gaining some momentum in Texas to secede. I'm all for it.

Years ago, on my first trip to Austin, I commented to a friend there that Austin didn't have many Blacks for the capital city of a southern state. Without batting an eye, he responded: "We don't feed them." — S.P., Texas

Dear Chairman Williams: Enclosed is a copy of the National Alliance BULLETIN from August, 1996. The commentary by Dr. Pierce in that issue seems relevant to recent events, including those involving the Creature From the Fat Lagoon: the SPLC's Heidi Ho Beirich. I look forward to seeing her float over Jewish queers for the Macy's Thanksgiving Day Parade — and hope she doesn't eat the other balloons. — R.W., Ohio

Chairman Williams responds: Thank you for sending the National Office that 20-year-old BULLETIN, R.W. The commentary in that issue is indeed relevant to what we are having to deal with today. I will reprint Dr. Pierce's prudent commentary for our current members and other supporters, highlighting the most relevant parts. His words continue to guide us. Ignoring the mudslingers, who have switched from printed newsletters to the Internet in the intervening decades, and never responding to them, is very good advice. Unfortunately, today we do not have the luxury of ignoring all of those who attack us: Lawsuits cannot be ignored. The worst thing one can do when sued is nothing. We must vigorously defend ourselves, and that costs money — thus our Legal Defense Fund. We have excellent lawyers representing us, and, being in the superior position, all we lack in order to prevail are the funds to pay them for their services. I do not want to have to mortgage the Williams homestead to pay them. Members, please help us by donating to the fund, either by writing to our postal address or by visiting <http://natall.com/legal>

Commentary by Chairman William White Williams

The Fight for Truth

Like us, our founder William Pierce had to deal with repeated attempts to destroy the National Alliance. What we are trying to do is so dangerous to our physically cowardly enemies that there is no depth of deception and dirty tricks to which they will not stoop in order to derail us from our mission.

Even before the age of the Internet, disinformation agents, both professional and free-lance, spread anti-Alliance rumors and demoralizing tall tales to whomever would listen. Then, as now, our enemies sought out weak, vulnerable people within our gates to use as informants and front men. I often refer to Dr. Pierce's sage advice on the topic, which I will share with you here. This is from his 1996 BULLETIN commentary, "Responding to Liars" (emphasis added):

As the Alliance has grown, so has the number of individuals and groups opposed to us. Some of these express their hostility publicly in libelous attacks against us. Several members have contacted the National office and suggested that the various charges made against us should be responded to, lest members of the general public be misled by the liars.

Occasionally a public repudiation of one of those liars is appropriate; usually it is not. A classification and understanding of the motivations of the liars always is appropriate for us, however.

First there are genuine ideological opponents, who in lashing out at those who differ with them are not always careful to remain objective and truthful. An example is the John Birch Society, which was discussed in the August-September 1996 issue of National Vanguard ("Enemies on the Right: The John Birch Society and Individualism"). As a general rule, the attacks by such opponents are not motivated by malice, but a desire to keep their own flocks on the straight and narrow path. A public debate with such opponents — or at least a public analysis of the differences we have with them — may sometimes be useful in clarifying issues. In any event, such opponents usually pose no threat to us and are not a cause for concern, primarily because there is a clear separation between their core audience and ours.

Second, there are individuals or groups whose opposition to us is based not on ideology but on greed: They regard us as operators in the "patriot" racket, and their attacks on us are not only mendacious but also malicious, intended to injure our reputation and keep "patriot" donations away from us. The outstanding example of a liar in this category is [the late] Willis Carto, owner of the crank-conservative tabloid Spotlight. Fortunately, Carto has seriously damaged his own credibility by labelling everyone who has crossed his path over the years either an "ADL operative" or an "FBI asset." These Category Two liars are more dangerous than those in Category One, because there is not as clear a separation between our audience and theirs; We will receive some support from conservative cranks, for example, and a few radical patriots of limited perspicacity still have not recognized Carto for the crook he is.

It is futile to attempt to debate someone who is not interested in facts or ideas but only in hurling insults and lies, especially when we are constrained to be truthful. If it were not for this constraint, we might invest much time and money in making public charges that Carto is a known pederast or that he has ties to the government of Israel, and if he were a rational person he eventually might decide that we were hurting him as much as he was hurting us and therefore stop claiming that I am an "FBI asset." Carto, however, is not rational, and any exchange of lies and insults with him can serve only to lower us to his level. Nor is it especially helpful to allow oneself to be baited into responding, "No, I am not an FBI asset, despite what Carto says."

A third category of liars consists of those who have had their feelings hurt by the Alliance or by me and want to ease the smarting by hurting us in return. Some of the Category Three people are former members. Because their lives have an entirely personal motivation, they usually don't have much staying power. Unfortunately, however, the supply of ex-members with hurt feelings will be continually replenished as we continue to grow and to shed individuals who don't measure up to our standards. As in the case of Category Two liars, debate with these emotionally driven attackers is futile.

A fourth category of liars consists of the professionals: That is, people who are paid to lie about us. An obvious component of this category consists of the liars of the controlled media. The media liars have until now limited their lying to exaggerations and insinuations designed to make us look bad to people who are more or less under the influence of the media.

They call us "haters," "neo-Nazi thugs," and the like, and hint that we are dangerous, violent, and mentally unstable. Such lies work well with the Politically Correct elements, whom we aren't interested in trying to influence anyway. The general public tends to believe these lies about halfway and in consequence is leery of us. And, of course, they have no negative effect at all on knowledgeable racial patriots, but rather are considered a mark of merit.

We counter the effects of these lies on the general public not by responding in a point-by-point fashion, but by ignoring the media and presenting our own message in as non-hateful and non-thuggish a manner as we can. Later, when their bosses order them to begin saying that we are child molesters, drug dealers, and homosexuals — charges which will not cause the Politically Correct to think worse of us, but which will be regarded by the general public as considerably more serious than hatefulness and thuggishness — we may be obliged to use different tactics in responding.

Now we are seeing the emergence of another type of professional liar: namely, the liar who pretends to be one of us, while secretly taking his orders and his pay from our enemies. His assignment is to sow confusion, suspicion, and distrust while gathering information, and in the furtherance of his goal he does not hesitate to tell far more outlandish lies than the minions of the controlled media now dare. He is generally a person without fixed assets, and therefore judgement proof.

The emergence is a development we should have expected. It is a tactic which the Jews have used over and over in the past. They used it in the 1920s and the early 1930s in Germany, for example. They know that the people to whom we most strongly appeal are immune, to a very large degree, to what they and their acknowledged minions say about us, and that the general public will gain a degree of immunity as conditions worsen. Therefore, they turn to a Trojan Horse tactic.

This is exactly what we see with former Alliance members Randolph Dilloway, Garland Corse, her roommate/landlord Bob DeMarais, and her boyfriend Michael Oljaca. These all now openly work with the six NARRG co-plaintiffs — and (amazingly, considering that these strange bedfellows try to maintain an image of being followers of Dr. Pierce) one of them, Dilloway, publicly boasts of meeting with an agent of the anti-White SPLC, Heidi Beirich, in his parents' home, and selling stolen Alliance property to that organization, and another, Corse, publicly threatens to "report" Alliance members to the Jewish group (though she never had access to member information).

As I noted above, we are seeing now only the beginning of this sort of activity. At this time its practitioners are very crude, and the people they affect are primarily hobbyists, who thrive on gossip and sensation. Later the practitioners will be more sophisticated, and they will do more damage. We will respond to them in a proper way at the proper time.

What we will not do, however, is fall into the trap of trying to rebut their lies: That is a bottomless quagmire. At this time, we cannot prevent paid liars from doing what they are paid to do, but we can limit their effects on the hobbyists and the cranks by ignoring them and going about our work. Everybody enjoys a good fight, but one liar dancing around by himself and throwing punches at shadows isn't very interesting. If a liar cannot provoke a counter-punch, his unanswered rhetoric won't hold even the hobbyists' attention for long.

So when we receive letters saying, "so-and-so says in his Amalgamated White People's Party newsletter that the Alliance is really a Satanist cult and William Pierce is a heroin addict who molests little boys — what do you say to that?" we are likely not to answer them and simply to mark the senders down as hobbyists.

What we are doing now, with tremendous effort and sacrifice, and with your necessary help, is responding to these Trojan Horse tactics "in a proper way and at the proper time," as Dr. Pierce said we would have to do. He never told us it would be easy — but he did tell us it would be necessary.

Meanwhile, we continue to spread our message of hope for White people: Our intentional White community is growing and becoming more self-sufficient; our media offerings are expanding; and our radio network and news site — which will soon publish its 3,000th article since its reorganization — are reaching thousands of new people every single day. W. W. W.
